- 1:30p KEYNOTE ADDRESS: CHUCK LARSON
"Hearing your voice: New studies on the control of voice Fo"
Chair: Christy L. Ludlow
The Westin Philadelphia: Grand Ballroom

Keynote Speaker: Chuck Larson

Dr. Chuck Larson received his PhD in Speech and Hearing Sciences from the University of Washington in 1975. He took a position as an Assistant Professor in the Dept. of Communication Sciences and Disorders at Northwestern University in 1981. He teaches courses on the anatomy and physiology of the vocal mechanism as well as in neurobiology. He is now a Professor and Chairman of the department at Northwestern. Dr. Larson's primary research interests are on voice control and the laryngeal system. Early in his career, he studied neural mechanisms of voice control in monkeys. In his recent work on humans, he has studied the role of hearing on voice fundamental frequency (F₀) control by presenting unanticipated changes in voice pitch feedback to speakers. This work has shown that reflexive neural mechanisms help a speaker stabilize voice F₀ around a desired level.
