The Annual meeting of The Voice Foundation was held in Philadelphia last weekend, with great involvement by our members, and topped off with a gala honoring Catherine Malfitano, Chita Rivera, Paulo Szot, and Drexel University President John Fry. The highlight was Sharon Radionoff’s performance!

- Nandhu Radhakrishnan PhD presented “Reading versus perception in voice analysis,” and “Voice analysis of asymptomatic high-risk voice users”

- Joe Evans PhD had 3 presentations: “Aerobic exercise as a warm-up for singing: Acoustic impacts,” “The use of inexpensive technology to evaluate singers auditioning for voice graduate programs,” and “The ecological validity of the singing power ratio: Comparison across venues.”

- Ken Altman MD PhD presented “A comparison of VHI-10 scores and voice grade in 450 patients across different levels of voice users.”

- Sharon Radionoff PhD and Apurva Thekdi MD presented “Ehlers-Danlos syndrome, postural orthostatic tachycardia syndrome, dysautonomia and the young singer.”
Workshops were held at the Academy for Vocal Arts, and involved demonstrations and group participation with a number of fun areas. Bonnie Raphael PhD presented in the historic theater on “Doing the wrong things the right way.” Amelia Rollings PhD had an awesome demonstration on “Teaching strategies for functional musical theater group voice classes,” with students ranging from 13 to 23. And Diane Gaary MFA involved our group with the Lessac Kinesic training for articulation using rhythmic musicality. There were many other great sessions as well.
